The Community-led Worldview of Systems Change

Knowledge comes from each person's perspective.

It is the ability to understand who you are, within the environment around you. --Jude Nwachukwu, Liberia

Préparez-vous : Quand nous lirons ces 10 recommandations...

notez-en une ou deux qui vous interpellent.

TEN WAYS TO DECOLONIZE KNOWLEDGE AND NURTURE CLD

1. Start with the heart: fall in love with what is happening.
2. Power dynamics are often broken: fix them constantly, intentionally, artfully.
3. Foster growth mindsets (and root out “learned helplessness”).
4. Process, Process, Process, built on adept facilitation.
5. Co-create a shared space where everyone has a part to play.

6. Communities are experts: Look within.

7. Recognize that the power that fuels and sustains progress is intangible.

8. Plan for decades, while acting in the present.

9. See that we are all interconnected: partner and collaborate inclusively.

10. Aim strongly for authentic, literal transformation--a truly changed local system.
